

An URBANDADDY Publication

Kempt

August 22, 2013

world of men's style / fashion / grooming

RSS

Home Object

07/23/13

DIVE WATCHES: HOW LOW CAN THEY GO?

TAGS

- Accessories
- Breitling
- Submariner
- Watches
- Waterproof

CONTRIBUTORS

— Stephen Praetorius

SHARE ON

Let's just say, you're in the mood for a little underwater adventure. And what submarine traipse would be complete without a bright new bit of marine-equipped wrist candy?

But often when it comes to marine horology, it's easy to find yourself drowning in the sea of a available options. So to help you make your choice, we've taken a moment to compile some of the finest nautical timepieces out there. And we've arranged them by depth of water-resistance, so whether it's casual snorkeling or Mariana Trench diving that you're into, we've got you covered.

Now, follow us for your deep-sea watch champions...

The Featherweights:

RECENT POSTS

- LinkOut
- Reading About Baseball With Jane Birkin Big Picture
- Malene Jensen Might Be Winking at You About
- The Kempt Five Conversation
- The Stat Sheet: J.Crew "Discovered" Bomber Jacket Well Pressed
- The September Issues: GQ, Esquire and Details LinkOut
- Scouting Viral Vines with Chrissy Teigen Big Picture
- Linnea and Maja Are the Only Reason This Wall Is Still Standing Stylist
- Fall Report: Colors, Materials, Patterns

BY CATEGORY

- About
- The Kempt Five
- The Kempt Five
- The Kempt Five
- Across the Sea
- Applauding Thom Browne's Showmanship in Milan
- South Korea Goes Casual
- Inside the Turnbull & Asser Archives
- Ad Rock
- Cartier's Newest Sport Watch
- Introducing... the Gentleman's Guide on How to Arrive
- Kempt Style Shifters
- Art Threat
- The Five Gallery Shows to Put on Your Calendar

The Welterweights:

Sea-God GMT III-300m

