

Sea-God Watches

The very young, but very promising Italian watch brand Sea-God, presented to the world market new sport wrist watches for men and women with the large measure of the water resistance – the collection of Stormchaser Date. The watch case has the very popular nowadays black PVD coating and the 46 mm titanium bezel. The Italian watch from the Sea-God can withstand 300 meters deep without any damage of the movement and the case. The watches are equipped with the movement of Swiss ETA caliber 2824-2 with quite large power reserve - 42 hours. Sure, the name “Sea-God” is a great name for the new Italian company, which produces watches with the characteristic features, which are associated with water and the inexhaustible power of the sea. The Italian company Sea-God has made the great effort to improve the production technologies and the first line of their watches shows that the direction of the watch company has been chosen correct.

The watch manufacture Sea-God has set for itself a number of important tasks, which regularly tries to realize in its watchmaking. The watchmakers of the company are constantly improving their skills. They achieve maximum strength and durability of their products so that even after 10 years of the continuous usage, the watches were like new. The next important thing is the repair capability. It should be possible to quickly and easily replace the damaged detail. It is important that, despite the huge number of functions, the watches were simple to use, and the most important function – indication of time was easy to do. The most necessary characteristic of the Italian men wristwatch Sea-God must be the maximum water resistance, which is very important for professional divers and for other people too. And finally, it's necessary to know the market size of the Italian watches in the world market. Essential to ensure that the spare details can be easily bought and exchanged in any convenient place for the owner of the Italian Sea-

God watches.

Now the Italian company Sea-God, despite the fact that it's the new company, is proud to announce that their watches can be worn without any problems for 10 years, and their condition does not differ from their original form.

Informational watch portal montre24.com presents to attention of all watch lovers an exclusive video clip of the Italian watch company Sea – God, which took an active part at the annual exhibition BaselWorld 2012. In presented video clip, perhaps, will be interested people who are watching at the development of Italian watch making. The Italian company Sea-God is a relatively young watch brand, which since its inception has set a number of tasks and engaged in their implementation consistent. How much the company can realize its main objectives, can only judge the owners of Sea-God watches. The main distinctive feature of all models of Sea-God is second hand, the base of which is made in the form of a trident of Poseidon.

At the annual exhibition BaselWorld 2012 the company Sea-God introduced its latest product. At the beginning of video clip is provided information about the company, as well as its main specialty. The first presented model was Black Strom, which is one of the basic works of the company. The model is equipped with Swiss mechanism ETA, which certainly is a guarantee of high quality and precision. On the dial, case and strap is located a logo - a trident of Poseidon. This logo was chosen because the company Sea-God – is a manufacturer of high quality diving watches. The new Sea-God Black Strom model is presented in three versions: a fully stainless steel version, black - steel version and a completely black model. On the dial at the position "3 o'clock" is located the aperture of the current date. Black Strom watch comes with a black leather strap. However, in next models, the company also intends to use steel bracelets. Interestingly, that steel bracelet is not so convenient to use for diving.

The model Black Strom is also presented in a version with second time zone indicator and is equipped with a bi-directional rotating bezel. This new product is also available in three versions: a fully stainless steel version, black - steel version and completely black model.

The next model was Black Shadow watch. Its name was chosen no accidentally because the watch is completely black. The only "light at the end of the tunnel" is a blue dial. The model is released a limited edition.

After was presented a model of Black and White, which, respectively, has performed in combination of black and white. A rather nice looking model, which we can confidently classify the category of unisex. Black and White model is equipped with a Swiss mechanism movement ETA. In it is also clearly observed attention to detail, in particular, to use the logo. For fans of chronographs, the company intends to start creating chronographs until next year and present at the show BaselWorld 2013.
